Promoting Mental Health Minimising Mental Illness and Integrating through Education (PROMISE)

Colleagues and I from Middlesex University have recently been offered funding for an EU DG Sanco public health project in the area of Mental Health Promotion. The title of the project is PROMISE (Promoting Mental Health Minimising Mental Illness and Integrating through Education). We are sending you this email to find out if your organisation (EASSW) would like to be a collaborative partner of this important EU project. Whilst no funding is attached to this kind of collaboration, we would very much like to consult you with respect to your views concerning the educational implications of Mental Health Promotion, particularly with respect to the implications for the multi-disciplinary professional education of social workers, nurses, psychologists and psychiatrists. We would also invite you to attend key conferences and meetings, and you would also have access to the mental health promotion guidelines and model educational programmes that will be some of the key outcomes for the project. Attached (Promoting Mental Health Minimising Mental Illness and Integrating through Education) an overview of the project.

Please can you reply as soon as possible to Chris Griffiths C.Griffiths@mdx.ac.uk to confirm or decline interest?
