

PhD Research at London Met

Opportunities exist in the Department of Applied Social Sciences for students wishing to undertake doctoral research full-time in the following areas:

- Employment of social workers trained abroad (International Social Work)
- Identity and domestic space (Media, Information and Communications)
- Youth subculture and local and global cultural identities (Media Information and Communications / Social Sciences)
- Civilisational studies (Social Sciences)

The Department has a strong commitment to interdisciplinary work and to promotion of research in many forms. There are opportunities for research methods training and participation in other activities including those organised by the Department's four Research Centres. Some funding may be available.

Initial inquiries should be made to Professor Karen Lyons email:
k.lyons@londonmet.ac.uk

For an application pack please email: research@londonmet.ac.uk

Formal applications must be received by 31 July 2006 and should be sent to Aimee Jenner email: a.jenner@londonmet.ac.uk

Interviews will be held in the August/September period with a view to enrolment of successful candidates in the Autumn Semester 2006.

www.londonmet.ac.uk/depts/dass

