What are the main challenges you are facing in doing your work as Social Work educators in lockdown? What suggestions do you have to support your colleagues? European Association of Schools of Social Work calls social work educators to share their experiences and views on the challenges in facing the COVID-19 virus and lockdown.

Some questions...

- How do you try to offer a quality social work education? What are the challenges or activities which can inspire other countries?
- How do schools facilitate physical distancing and social solidarity towards their students or colleagues?
- How do you as schools support social work practice to support communities and the most vulnerable?
- How do you advocate for social services and in policy environments to make sure that services adapt, remain open and are pro-active in supporting communities and vulnerable populations?
- How do you support and protect physically and mentally professionals and volunteers in their frontline role?
- How can we promote global solidarity to fight Covid-19?
